How to Weld Aluminum with an ARC Welder Sciencing

Gas metal arc welding (GMAW), informally called Heliarc welding, is a process of welding that adds inert gas, such as argon or helium, in order to ensure that oxidation does not occur during the melting process. To weld aluminum with this method, it is best to preheat the metal to no more than 230 degrees Fahrenheit before beginning the weld. By using argon gas and pushing rather than pulling the welding gun away from the weld puddle, aluminum can be bound without much trouble.
